NICCI bids farewell .....

that NICCI plays its full role in becoming trade and Commerce Bridge between India and Nepal.

Our partnership with Embassy of India has shown its remarkable result; the success of events has given NICCI a new boost. Let me thank our friends from Embassy of India who are always willing to help and guide us despite their pressing schedules and have always extended support in all our endeavors”

Responding the remarks of NICCI President in his honour His Excellency Jayant Prasad recalled his student life with the ex-ambassadors of Nepal to India who were present in the farewell program, particularly his contemporary Professor Lok Raj Baral and Dr. Durgesh Man Singh when they were studying in Jawaharlal Nehru University in 1970s.

Appreciating Nepal’s unique natural endowment, Indian envoy Prasad said “When Nepal gains stability it will make rapid progress. China has shown in a way and India has also shown that it is possible to change the whole paradigm and once you know unfettered entrepreneurship in peace. Nepal is smaller in size, it has a manageable given its territory, abundant resource endowment - such that it is the richest country not of South Asia but of Asia as a whole. I mean in these ranges from the high mountains to the plates and there is such a rich potential of gaining revenues.”

His Excellency further said “I think the rhythm of modern connectivity and the rhythm of modern relationships in 21st century is determined by trade commerce & industry, not just by cultural homogeneity or cultural sharing of a same civilian states or having the same terrain and same temperament, that’s not enough to sustain a relationship.”

In the program, Indian Ambassador Prasad shared his experiences of peace keeping process in Afghanistan and expressed very hopeful environment and abundant possibilities of prosperity of Nepal in near future once political stability is restored in Nepal.
